RAILWAY DISASTER.
Seven Persons Killed and Several Injured on an English Road.

Liverpool, Dec. 24.—An explosion in a fuse box set fire to a train on the electric overhead railway at Dingle station Monday. Several of the railway employees were terribly burned and seven were killed.

The burning train entered a tunnel stuffed with stacks of creosoted rail-end sleepers. These were also set on fire and the tunnel became a blazing furnace. The fire broke out with the greatest difficulty in extinguishing the flames. The corpses of two of the men killed were carried from the tunnel.

The accident occurred at 6 o'clock in the evening. The train was packed but the majority of passengers had alighted at the previous station. Many passengers jumped from the burning train and rushed out of the tunnel, while others were dragged out by their fellow travelers in a half suffocated condition.

The station buildings were much damaged. Subsequently the bodies of the station foreman and the signal boy were extricated, making seven deaths in all, including the driver and the guard of the train. Apparently no passengers were killed, but it is possible that other bodies may be recovered later.

The electric car was crushed and wrecked by the runaway car, which then jumped the rails and was brought to a standstill by a telephone pole, which struck with terrific force, completely demolishing the car and scattering its occupants in all directions. Charles Goodman, Rathbun's alleged victim, was found dead last month in a hotel in this city, after he had spent some time with Rathbun. His body was shipped to Little Rock, Ark., where Rathbun's wife lives, as that of Rathbun, on whose life an insurance policy for $1000 had been issued. An Appropriate Present.

Col. Jay H. Northup Remembered by His Employees.

Among the many gifts bestowed during this festive season none was handsomer or more highly appreciated than the one given to Col. Northup. Desiring to show their esteem for their friend and employer a large number of the men who are intimately connected with the Colonel's interests as employees purchased an elegant desk, of the latest design and finish, and planned to give him a Christmas surprise. They succeeded admirably. During his temporary absence at Whitehouse the desk was taken to Col. Northup's office and put in the place of his old one. All his books and papers were transferred to the new repository, and when the recipient of the beautiful testimonial came up from the train and entered his room at his office his surprise was genuine and great. He picked up and read the letter of presentation and tried to say something fitting in response, but all he could say was that he was thankful and appreciative, and then he beat retreat for home.

The desk is a modern affair of polished oak, costly and complete in every particular. We append the letter of presentation.

Louisa, Ky., Dec. 25, 1901.

COL. JAY H. NORTHPUP, Louisa, Ky.:—

Dear Sir: In token of their appreciation of the cordial relations existing between you and them the undersigned friends and employees beg that you will accept this desk, and trust that you will find it pleasing as well as useful in years to come. And they unite in wishing you and yours a Merry Christmas and a prosperous and Happy New Year.

Mrs. Alice Ittle, has now moved to Louisa. Mrs. Rule has been a resident here for several years, and the entire community will miss her and her daughter Miss Ora, very much. Mrs. Rule has two sons, Tobie and Ben, who have good positions at Louisa and this is why she has decided to move. We most highly commend this excellent family to the people of Louisa.—Paintsville Commercial.

Chas. Shannon was shot in the leg Monday night near Busseyville. It is not known who fired the shot. He was standing near a crowd of men and boys in which a row was in progress. Some shots were fired and he was hit near the thigh. Shannon came to Louisa and Dr. Biggs dressed the wound, which will not likely prove serious unless blood poison should set in. He is the youngest son of the widow of A. L. Shannon, of Lick creek.

Dec Bolt, of the mouth of Bolts Fork, and two other young men whose names we did not learn came to Buchanan one day last week and went down on the afternoon train to Catlettsburg. Returning on the 5:30 train drunk, they went into Hatten and Warren's store, got a lunch, and loaded up a revolver, and then went out of doors and commenced shooting, apparently for general results. One ball went crashing through a window of Mr. Chas. Warren's parlor and struck the wall on the opposite side, dropping down on the floor near the fire-place. Mr. and Mrs. Warren were sitting by the fire when it happened. They came back to Buchanan again on Monday and went down on the afternoon train and "tanked up."

On their return, Bolt began shooting out of the car window, when Conductor Blevins and Expressman Damron took the revolver from him and put him off of the train and left him to enjoy his own company. People who do not propose to observe the proper regulations for decent passengers had as well learn to keep off Brunk Blevins' train.

Women on Grand Jury.

Think of telling all the meanness you know to a grand jury having two female members! Would it stagger you? The names of two women were drawn from the jury wheel for the January term of our Circuit Court and the officers have summoned them to appear at the court house in Louisa on the first Monday in January to serve as members of the grand jury. This unusual proceeding is due to an error on the part of the jury commissioners, of course, in putting the names of these women into the wheel; and they explain the error by saying that in making up the list from the assessor's book they did not recognize the first names of these persons as those of the female persuasion. They are property owners and their names appear on the assessor's book with the prefix of Miss or Mrs. Their names are Sina Young and Camaleet Wheeler.

KENTUCKY SOLDIERS.

In the Late War Entitled to More Pay.

Frankfort, Ky., Dec. 19.—Adj. Gen. Murray this morning addressed a circular letter to the officers of the three Kentucky regiments, which were mustered into the United States service at the breaking out of the Spanish-American war, notifying them that under a recent ruling the War Department will pay all enlisted men of the regiments at the regular State Guard rate of $1.50 per day from the time they left home until they were mustered out of state and into Government service. The men have been paid for this time at the Government rate of $13 a month and as about ten or fifteen days elapsed between leaving home and the mustering into Government service each private is entitled to $1 for each day.

There were about 600 men in each of the three regiments and there will be from $18,000 to $25,000 distributed by the Government in Kentucky. The fourth regiment does not come in for any of this money, as it was never a State Guard regiment.

It will be necessary for the Col. and officers of the regiments to act promptly as the claims must be filed before January 1, 1902. That the Kentucky soldiers are entitled to this money was discovered by Capt. C. C. Calhoun, of Lexington, who has been in Washington for ten days looking up Civil and Spanish-American war claims. While there Capt. Calhoun also had transferred to the account of the State $7,000, which is due for arms and equipments furnished at the outbreak of the Spanish war, and another claim for the transportation and supplies while enroute to the place of mobilization. Six States are acting with Kentucky in the attempt to collect old Civil War claims. Kentucky's claim is $917,000.

An Educational Offer.

M. S. Burns recently received a letter from J. B. Wheatley, principal of the Mountain College at Paintsville, stating that arrangements had been made whereby two pupils from each of the several counties adjoining Johnson county, of which Lawrence is one, would be admitted to that school from Dec. 30th, 1901, to May 16th, 1902, without any charge for tuition. Any one wishing to take advantage of this offer should write to J. B. Wheatley, Paintsville, Ky.

Hans Strother, white, shot two negroes in Catlettsburg Tuesday, and a stray bullet from his revolver is reported to have wounded Mrs. L. H. Gormley, of Prestonsburg, in the foot. The negroes were Diggs Campbell and Joe Booker. They were quarrelling with Strother, but when he drew a revolver they ran and he shot both of them in the back. Campbell is paralyzed and dangerously wounded. Booker not seriously hurt. All drunk.

FALLSBURG

J. W. Shortridge deserves credit for having the road up Blaine to Yatesville, that hitherto has been almost impassable at this time in the year) graded down almost level, so that the people living up Blaine since this snow fell can just come down to Fallsburg and buy their necessities and load them in a big goods box and nail runners on it and then tie the rope to it, and pull their load home without horses. It would be a grand thing for this county if the river road could or would be made as good as this Blaine road.

It takes hustling to keep fires since this cold weather. Some were not prepared for it. When we get to using gas for fuel and lights coal and wood will not be needed. H. C. Austin says it is only 30 feet to gas at his place, while they go nine or ten hundred in Ind.

The Democrats of Indiana have been very liberal in their donations to the Goebel Monument fund, notwithstanding Durbin's refusal to grant a requisition.

Hope that Rastus will be on hand I will say no more. T. E. S.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

Welch, W. Va., Dec. 20.—Wayne Damron, of Catlettsburg, Ky., an eighteen-year-old boy, shot three negroes to death in a saloon at the mining town of Davy, this county, this evening. About a dozen negroes went into the saloon with drawn revolvers and demanded that the white people withdraw. All left but Damron who pulled his gun, killed three of the negroes and caused a panic among the rest. Damron has not been apprehended.

Kentucky's Secretary of State, C. B. Hill, arrived at the Grand from Frankfort last night. He is interested in the mineral and timber land deal that John C. Mayo is closing up at Chicago. Asked about the senatorial situation in state, Mr. Hill said:

"All I have to say in that connection is that I am for Hon. James B. McCreary, and honestly believe that he will be elected, which would carry out the chance of a great majority of the Democrats of Kentucky."

The State Parole Board has released from the penitentiary on parole, Elizabeth Goebel, of Floyd county, who was serving a sentence of two years for manslaughter. When the woman was received at the institution here about two months ago she carried with her a baby three months old and left on the outside three children under the age of eight years. The children left outside were thrown on the charity of the county and many of its best citizens recommended the action taken by the Parole Board.

John C. C. Mayo, of Paintsville, Johnson county, Kentucky, the young Napoleon of big timber and mineral land deals of that resourceful region that has been attracting the attention of Eastern capitalists for several years, stopped over at the Grand last night enroute to Chicago to close up one of the greatest deals ever known in this section of the country of tens of thousands of acres that means a mighty development, with Cincinnati as its final focal point in the handling of machinery and distribution of products.—C-J.

Rev. J. M. Peters, of the Southern Methodist church, died at Tacoma, in the state of Washington, on Monday. He was formerly connected with the West Virginia conference, and for two years was stationed at this place. He was married here to Miss Bell Christy, daughter of our former townsman, J. W. Christy, and has four children. He was transferred several years ago on account of his health. His last work in this state was in Fayette county. He came originally from one of the Big Sandy Valley counties in Kentucky.—Wayne News.
